

Black Country Cardiovascular Network

The Network is made up of NHS organisations such as acute trusts (hospitals), primary care trusts, general practitioners, staff groups, patients and carers.

The Network has recently expanded its work programme and now covers the areas of heart and stroke care and the new site will include both areas under the one banner of the Black Country Cardiovascular Network

The site has been designed to be used by professional staff and the general public, and we hope that you find it helpful and informative - please let us have your views and comments.
